Bay St. Louis city officials on Tuesday broke ground for the long-awaited Bay St. Louis Public Safety Complex.

"This thing started probably four years ago as just a dream," Mayor Mike Favre said during the ceremony.

Favre said the 10,000-square-foot, state-of-the-art building will still offer the police department room to grow, and will be the facility that the city's police officers and citizens deserve.

Favre thanked the Mississippi Legislature for procuring money for the project from the Gulf Coast Restoration

There's a full weekend of free food and fun planned at the newly-renovated Martin Luther King Park in Bay St. Louis this weekend, including the Retrofit organization's "Back-to-School Fun Day" on Saturday and the "Sunday in the Park" celebration.

Martin Luther King Park in the Bay is, historically, "essential to a lot of events," Hancock NAACP President Dr. Gregory Barabino said last week, and now, with the refreshed facilities, "the next generation can enjoy the park, get out there and have a quality experience by modern standards. It all comes down to the theory that we could change the community

Volunteers lend a hand to local senior citizens

Youth volunteers with St. Matthew Parish, Go Light Your World, from Southborough, Massachusetts on Monday volunteered at the Hancock County Senior Citizens Center.

Group chaperone Karen Fournier said the group's first trip down was the year after 2005's Hurricane Katrina, and they have been coming every year since then.

For several years, the group were stationed at St. Ann's in Lizana, she said.

"They ran a nonprofit called Project Hope and Compassion and they brought in volunteer groups and housed them and fed them. From there, we would go out into the local community and do service."

Fournier said that it was the group's first time volunteering at the senior center.

She said the group helps with yard work, soup kitchens, and children's camps.

Youth minister Stephen Forster said it was his first time visiting the Mississippi Gulf Coast and said it was "great to be here."

Fournier said the majority of the group's work revolves around working with seniors in need. She added that they obtain a list of names from the Hancock Resource Center.

First case of Monkeypox identified in MS

SEA COAST ECHO

Mississippi State Department of Health on Monday reported its first case of Monkeypox in a Mississippi resident. The specimen was tested at the Mississippi State Department of Health Public Health Laboratory. An investigation to identify persons who may have encountered the patient while they were infectious is ongoing. Development (incubation) of the disease after exposure is one to two weeks.

Nationally – as of July 22, 2022 – 2,891 cases have been confirmed with no reported deaths. While this is the first reported case in MS, it remains likely that other cases will be identified as well.

Transmission can occur with close skin-to skin contact – kissing, cuddling or sex – with an infected person. Transmission can also occur by touching clothing or linens, bedding, or towels of an infected person, or inhaling the respiratory droplets during prolonged close contact with an infected person. According to State Epidemiologist Dr. Paul Byers, "While anyone can get Monkeypox, many of the cases identified in the outbreak in the US and globally have been among men who have sex with men."

Monkeypox is a rare disease caused by infection with the Monkeypox virus.

Symptoms may start out as a fever, swollen lymph nodes, headache, and muscle aches, followed by a rash that starts out as flat and then advances to pimples, or blisters and ulcers on the face, body and private parts (sexual organs). The rash can be itchy and painful. It can be confused with sexually transmitted infections such as syphilis and herpes, or with chickenpox.

The illness typically lasts two to four weeks. Sometimes, people get a rash first, followed by other symptoms. Others only experience a rash.

The Mississippi State Department of Health has received limited doses of vaccine that will be used to treat MSDH identified individuals exposed to a case of Monkeypox.

Medical providers are encouraged to consider Monkeypox infection and to notify MSDH when evaluating patients with a rash, especially if there are known risk factors.

Stennis Flashback: NASA Engineers Recall Challenges of Record-Breaking Hot Fire

SEA COAST ECHO

At NASA's Stennis Space Center, a typical hot fire of an RS-25 engine lasts 500 seconds, the same amount of time it must fire to help launch the Space Launch System to orbit.

Ten years ago this month, however, Stennis engineers and operators at the Fred Haise Test Stand conducted a J-2X powerpack test for 1,350 seconds (22 and one-half minutes), almost three times as long. The testing was part of a series designed to support NASA as it continues its mission to explore the secrets of the universe for the benefit of all.

The test on July 24, 2012, also broke a record of 1,150 seconds set just a month earlier and remains the record for the longest-duration firing in the site's A Test Complex.

It also culminated days of hard work and preparation for the test team and marked yet another milestone for the nation's largest – and premier – propulsion test site.

"Sometimes, it's a relief," A Test Complex Operations and Maintenance Manager Michael Holmes said when describing the emotions that follow a hot fire test. "Sometimes, it's a joy. But it is always interesting."

Suffice it to say, the long duration test on July 24 was a challenge as well.

After all, it takes much more time than 22 and one-half minutes to prepare for a test. When test day arrives, months of communication already has taken place between the test article manufacturer and test team at Stennis.

There are a lot of moving pieces throughout the process – to prepare the test article, the stand, and the test team itself. The involved effort heightens the importance of getting the test off successfully when it is planned. For the test 10 years ago, there were more than 30 people working to complete the hot fire that day.

Getting the test facility ready means installing test stand instruments needed to support test specifications and calibrating those instruments to correct settings.

It also means ensuring there are enough propellants to fuel the test. In this case, operators needed 67,298 gallons of liquid oxygen and 211,522 gallons of liquid hydrogen.

The amount almost doubles the capacities of the test stand run tanks, which can hold 40,000 gallons of liquid oxygen and 110,000 gallons of liquid hydrogen. These tanks must be replenished during testing from propellant barges transported to the stand via the Stennis canal waterway system. Ensuring availability of the increased propellant requires coordination among the people delivering fuel to Stennis, loading it on barges, and then transferring it to the test stand as needed throughout the hot fire.

That is only one of the critical functions underway on test day. From engineers monitoring the transfer of liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen to members of the team monitoring the control system, data system, and video cameras, to those watching for test anomalies, test day can stretch long.

Ensuring pre-test conditions are met can take anywhere from four to five hours before the actual hot fire even begins. During the test, the team then watches data in real time to make sure objectives are being met. For the test 10 years ago, there were six primary objectives and seven secondary objectives.

Plan, start planting fall gardens in July

Simply walking out the front door each day, we're reminded that it is a blistering hot summer season. But believe it or not, now is the time to start planning and getting ready for the fall vegetable garden.

We're only 36 days from the meteorological start of the fall gardening season.

Guest Column
By Gary Bachman MSU Extension/Research Professor Ornamental Horticulture Host of Southern Gardening

The benefit of growing fall vegetables is that you can keep your home garden productive much of the year. It extends your harvest of fresh, homegrown, cool-season produce well into the fall and maybe even into winter.

The secret to successfully growing fall vegetables, like many things, is all about timing.

To determine when you should plant, count backward from the average date of the first annual hard frost. In Mississippi, there are big differences when this can arrive in coastal and northern counties.

Many cool-season veggies can be direct seeded, though I like to start the plants in smaller pots and transplant them. Either way, the process is the same.

You need to know the number of days to harvest, information that is usually found on the seed packet. Count backwards from the frost date and add 10 days, as the plants will grow a little slower in the fall. This tells you when you should plant in your region.

Fall is a great time to grow vegetable "sprinters," or crops that can go from seed to plate in under 30 days.

Cool-season greens like arugula, mustard and turnip and my favorites. Cincinnati Market radishes are quick and easy. Another must-have in my fall garden is any variety of kale.

Other fall vegetables like broccoli, cauliflower, Swiss chard and collards need a little more time to be ready to eat. Even though it's really hot now, it is time to sow these seeds in order to have harvest-ready plants in October.

But not every fall crop needs to be a cool-season vegetable.

Spring-planted okra can be pretty big right now and may be overwhelming you with pods. These big okra plants can be pruned back. When I learned this, I took my limb loppers and cut 7-foot-tall okra plants halfway down the stem. In short order, the new shoots

Hancock History: Eliza Jane Nicholson / Southern Lady

HANCOCK HISTORY
BY James Keating M.D.

A favorite daughter of both Pearl River and Hancock counties was Eliza Jane Poitevent Holbrook Nicholson (1843-1896), also known as "Pearl Rivers." She was the first woman newspaper publisher in the South ("The Daily Picayune" later "The Times Picayune"). In 1878 Eliza Jane inherited, upon the death of her husband, a failed newspaper swamped with debt. Eliza Jane was a gifted writer, but history remembers her life more as a pioneering and successful business woman than as a poet. In the mid-19th century, society disapproved of women of class working in the world of men. Against the wishes of her family, Eliza Jane rose to the challenge of running the "Daily Picayune." Under her stewardship, after investing $200,000 of her own money into the project, from 1878 until her death in 1896, the Picayune emerged from bankruptcy to become the leading newspaper in the South. She revolutionized the newspaper business in New Orleans with innovations such as feature stories, literature, and book reviews, all the while accumulating significant wealth. This steel magnolia entrepreneur performed dauntlessly in this marketplace as well as any modern-day Wall Street distressed debt bottom-feeder investing for a large private equity fund.

Moreover, Eliza Jane is the epitome of the quintessential "Southern Lady," a cultural, historic phenomenon within our regional society that persists today in a similar form anthropologically to what it was in the antebellum South. The character of Scarlett O'Hara in Margaret Mitchell's classic novel, "Gone With the Wind," is the best literary example of this tradition among Southern women. This culture or social institution, unique to the South, has been passed down from one generation to the next, mother to daughter to granddaughter, since colonial times. The performance of southern womenhood embraces a lifestyle of etiquette, manners, and hospitality. A "Code" of Panthers in Mississippi, Fact or Fiction?

Guest Column
By James Cummins

It is hard to go a week in Mississippi, especially during late fall and winter, and not hear about someone who thinks they have seen, or knows someone who thinks they have seen, a panther. With so many possible sightings, there must be panthers in Mississippi, right? Not necessarily. Sightings often can't be confirmed and are often misrepresented or misidentified. In this article, we'll learn about this secretive animal and its status in the Magnolia State.

In the United States, panthers historically ranged across the Southeast in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, and parts of Tennessee and South Carolina. However, now the breeding population of Florida panthers is found only in the southern tip of Florida, south of the Caloosahatchee River.

Hunted by people for sport, fur, and meat, the panther's population has declined drastically–even to the point of extinction in some areas of their historic range. Panthers are rarely seen by people who are only aware of its presence by their tracks left on the ground, scratch marks on trees, and scrapes (urine and/or feces left on top of a pile of grass that serves as a territorial marker). Panthers are often referred to as "the ghosts of the forest" because of their ability to move about without detection.

The last verified sighting of a panther in Mississippi was in 1957. However, over the years, there have been several credible sightings in the state. Most of these have been along the Mississippi River in Claiborne, Issaquena, and Washington counties. In the South Delta, a credible sighting occurred in Sharkey County and along the Mississippi Gulf Coast in Hancock County.

If one thinks he or she has seen a panther, documentation should be gathered. This is usually in the form of tracks, or more recently from good, quality game cameras. Tracks should be documented quickly as rain and wind can destroy them. Tracks can often look like those of a large dog. Notable differences are as follows: With a panther, there is an absence of toenails in the track, whereas with a dog, toenails will be present. The reason is that a panther does not walk with its toenails extracted. Panthers have a leading toe, whereas a dog does not. With a panther, the heal pad is square at the top and has three rear lobes, whereas a dog has a rounded heal pad with two lobes. As with any feline track, the tips of the toes form a half-circle; whereas with a dog, the two center toes extended farther than the right-most and left-most toes.

While we don't have any confirmation of panthers in Mississippi, I and many others who care about the wilds of our great state, hope this former native will return one day. If you have a credible sighting, check to make sure you are not misidentifying the panther. Find credible evidence. If all of it indicates a panther, immediately contact the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries, and Parks.

PRCC takes more steps to make education affordable

SEA COAST ECHO

POPLARVILLE, Miss. — Finding ways to make higher education affordable and accessible is a cornerstone of Pearl River Community College's mission. One way the college is assisting students is through Nelnet payment plans that help cover the balance left after all financial aid and scholarships are applied to the account.

Instead of needing to pay the entire balance for the semester at once, students can elect to spread out the payments over the semester. The automatic payments can be drawn from a checking or savings account or be charged to a credit or debit card.

The earlier a student commits to the payment plan, the lower the needed down payment percentage and monthly payment amounts. To avoid being marked as past due, all payments will be completed by December. Students signing up for the program by August 11 will need 15% down payment and will have 5 payments for the balance on the 20th of each month through December. Later start dates are available with the required down payment increasing as well as having fewer months to complete the payment plan.

PRCC has been using Nelnet for payment plan options for the last couple of years. It provides a convenient way to ensure a student's account does not get flagged as past due. Keeping the account current and in good standing is required to register for the next semester and graduate when courses are completed.

HOW TO SIGN UP FOR NELNET

Students need to log into RiverGuide with their PRCC credentials and then select the Nelnet tile. The system will prompt you for the information needed to enroll including the payment method you want to use.

There is a $35 nonrefundable enrollment fee per agreement and a $30 nonrefundable returned payment fee.

The Business Office is happy to help students with any questions regarding their accounts. You can email businessoffice@prcc.edu, come to campus, or contact us by phone 601-403-1204.

ELROY MICHAEL BISHOP

Elroy Michael Bishop of Diamondhead passed away on Tuesday, July 19, 2022 at the age of 91 to be reunited with his wife of 71 years, Mary P. Bishop.

Born at home on March 23, 1931 in Louisville, Kentucky, Roy was raised on a farm by his mother, Lucille Saunders Steinmetz, and grandparents, Sarah and Thomas Saunders. He was an adventurous child with a curiosity that often got him into trouble. After dropping out of school in the 8th grade a judge "convinced" him to join the military and he spent 2 years in the US Coast Guard. While home on leave, after transferring into the newly formed US Air Force, he walked into a five-and-dime store where he met the love of his life, Patsy McGarry. Mom & Dad were married on June 23, 1950.

SMSgt Roy Bishop served an illustrious 20+ years in the USAF from the Korean War to the Viet Nam era in March, 1970. While serving, Roy and Pat had 5 children, all born in different states. His last assignment was with a C-141 squadron at Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene, Texas.

After his military career, Roy went to work for Solar Turbines in New Orleans, Louisiana, rising through their ranks and earning prestigious assignments in Paris, France and Brussels, Belgium. He retired from Solar in 1990 and retired first to Gretna, Louisiana, then to Diamondhead, Mississippi in 2000. He and Pat continued their travels and adventures together until forced by Pat's health to stay close to home.

Roy was a distinguished and proud member of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church. He was devoted to helping rebuild many of the furnishings in the church after the devastation of Hurricane Katrina. He also delighted in woodworking. OLG is not the only area church to have his woodworking skills on display. He also made beautiful items from cabinets and dining room tables to clocks, pens, and pepper grinders, never accepting any payment for his work. In addition, there are hundreds of homes everywhere that have his famed wine cork trivets.

He was a devoted husband to Pat as she suffered with Alzheimer's disease, caring for her every need until she died at home on Jan 17, 2019. He spent his final years surrounded by beautiful memories of their life together and visited her grave every Friday, birthday, anniversary, holiday and the 17th of each month (always sending family pictures so that we could feel close to mom from miles away!)

He was preceded in death by his wife Mary Patricia Bishop (McGarry), in addition to his mother and grandparents, his daughter Patricia Fitzgerald, his granddaughter Melanie and his sons-in-law Pete Fitzgerald and most recently Wayne Stinson. In addition, his sister Betty Mills, his wife's parents Joseph and Helen McGarry and eight of their children have also passed.

He is survived by his daughters Elizabeth Oliver (Cliff), Martha Stinson, Sarah Bishop (Joe Reisdorf) and his only son Bruce (Audrey). He was blessed with 12 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren, many extended family members and a first great-great grandchild on the way!

Services were held on Tuesday, July 26, 2022 at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church: 228 South Beach Blvd. in Bay St. Louis, MS. Visitation began at 10:45 a.m. followed by a Mass of Christian Burial at 11:00 a.m. Interment with military honors took place at the Biloxi National Cemetery at 1:30 p.m.

In lieu of flowers please make donations to the Alzheimer's Association in Madison, Wisconsin: 2820 Walton Commons Lane #132 Madison, WI 53718 (online at https://http://www.alz.org/

On a final note we, the family, would also like to express our gratitude to Dr. David Roberts, Natasha, and Leanne as well as the rest of the staff at the Memorial Clinic in Diamondhead for all of the loving care they provided to both of our parents over the years. Edmond Fahey Funeral Home is honored to serve the family and friends of Elroy Michael Bishop.

ROMAN MORGAN PIERNAS JR.

Roman Morgan Piernas Jr. was born on October 20, 1952 to the late Roman "Buddy" Piernas Sr. and Elaine Piernas, in Gulfport MS. He was a lifelong resident of Bay St. Louis, MS, along with being a lifelong member of St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church. He attended St. Rose for grade school and went on to become one of the first African Americans to integrate St. Stanislaus high school. "Mickey", as he was affectionately called, would then attend Pearl River Community College, paying his own way by driving the school bus while there.

After leaving college, he went back home, where he met Vernadine. The couple eventually married, moved to the Washington D.C. area, took on careers with the F.B.I. and welcomed their son Shaun. After several years, the couple decided to move back home to Bay St. Louis, where LaTonya was born shortly after that. Mickey began working in construction with his father before joining the Army. He served one enlistment, becoming an Airborne Ranger, munitions specialist, and tank driver. He served the majority of his enlistment stationed in Germany, and it was during this time that the Berlin Wall fell. This was an event in history that he was proud to be a part of. When he came home, he worked for Alcan Cable Co. until they stopped production in the area.

Mickey loved playing baseball in high school, which translated to his love for softball in the Army and while at Alcan. He was also an avid bowler, bowling in multiple leagues as long as his health allowed. He was a fan of music, especially the Isley bros and Sade. Mickey was also a die hard Dallas Cowboys fan, which made for some "interesting" relationships with his neighbors when he stayed in Washington D.C. He passed his love of sports onto his children and made it a point to attend as many important sporting and life event for his kids as he could, never hesitating to pack up "the Suburban" and making a road trip for a soccer tournament or track meet. He was also a father figure to many kids in the neighborhood, opening up his home and treating them as his own.

With life comes change. As Mickey's life changed, so did his family dynamic. He met Marsha, and from this pairing came Kelton and Kirsten. Being the father he was wired to be, he was heavily involved in their lives and didn't miss a beat in being their Dad. Mickey tried his best at being a good role model and father figure to his immediate family, extended family and community.

Mickey was preceded in death by his father, Buddy, sister Ezell, brother in-law Robert, Kelton and Kirde's mother Marsha, his maternal and paternal grandparents, and several aunts, uncles and cousins.

Mickey is leaving to mourn, his mother Elaine Piernas and sister Yolanda Lewis. He also leaves on Earth to cherish his legacy, his sons Shaun (Jeanetta) Piernas of Shreveport LA, Kelton (Kristy) Piernas of Bay St. Louis, MS, and daughters LaTonya Piernas of Hattiesburg MS, and Kirsten Piernas, also of Hattiesburg, MS.

Paw-Paw Mickey will be watching from heaven over his grandchildren Jada, Shayla, Alia, Chris, Marcus,…… and two granddogs Coco and Gumbeaux. Mickey also leaves behind a host of nephews, nieces, cousins, and special friends that will miss him dearly. His funeral was July 16 at St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church. Burial was July 19 at Biloxi National Cemetery.

MARGARET ANNE SABOL

Margaret Anne Sabol, 71, of Sebastian, Florida, passed away on July 12, 2022. She was preceded in death by her parents and sister. She is survived by her husband Bruce Sabol, her daughters Emily Sabol McHan (Tom McHan) and Megan Sabol Martinez (Patrick Martinez), and her grandchildren Sabol McHan, Thomson McHan, Francisco Martinez, Augustine Martinez, and Florence Martinez. A memorial service will be held on Saturday, August 27, 2022, at Christ Episcopal Church at 10:00 AM in Vicksburg, Mississippi, and Celebration of Life will be held in Sebastian, Florida at a later date.

behavior embodies the spirit of this culture of femininity encouraged historically by society in southern rural villages and towns, often practiced by the community of women in church activities and service. The code of behavior encourages such ideals as being nice to everyone, especially elders, and never being rude in public. In addition, a "lady," according to the code, should mind her manners in public and exhibit gentility and grace with kind acts such as writing thank you notes, being humble, ignoring a faux pas of a guest in your house, and taking something to eat to any friend who has suffered a death in their family. According to this tradition, a southern lady always maintains her physical appearance or beauty in public. Any failure to conform to the Code will be criticized by her peer group as looking "common." Enforcement of this rule by family or peer group was through shaming and comments such as "bless her little heart."

Eliza Jane Nicholson and her second husband built a grand vacation home in 1887 on the Waveland waterfront called "Fort Nicholson." Today, a Magnolia Historical Marker sets on the house site near the corner of Nicholson Avenue and Beach Boulevard. The house was destroyed by a storm.

Stardust is a beautiful girl who was taken in as a semi-feral stray. She was very scared at first, but she has come a long way in our cat room. She is still a bit shy, but she warms up to gentle chin scratches, and would really blossom in a home of her own where she could receive patient love and attention. This shy 3 year old sweetie really needs to be somebody's baby! Please call the shelter, 228 466 4516, to meet Stardust, or stop by and visit her in the cat room. You will be glad you did!

Meet Zorah. This pretty Pittie is a 2 year old sweetheart who loves to hang out with our staff & volunteers. In fact, she would rather cuddle and give kisses than romp in the play yard with her doggie pals. She is very people oriented, and we think she'd be the perfect BFF for a single person, couple, or retirees seeking a devoted friend. Zorah could also join a family with older children who are seeking a canine companion and confidant. She always has fun playing and going for walks with our youth volunteers. Zorah has an innate sweetness about her that makes her light up a room. And just look at that joyful smile! Kisses await you, so please stop by the shelter during our visiting hours, Mon-Fri 10am-3:30pm (Tues 1pm-3:30pm), to meet sweet Zorah. Or, call our front desk at 228-466-4516 to schedule an appointment. Please bring your dog(s) and children along for the visit to ensure compatibility.

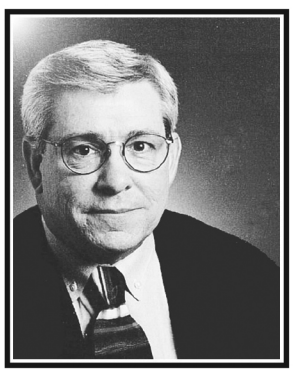
The Perils of Christian Nationalism

By REV. C. GERALD RICHARDSON, D. MIN



C. GERALD RICHARDSON, D. MIN.

The term, "Christian Nationalism" is one that has been around for many years. It has more recently found its way into our news stories in print as well as electronic media. It describes an understanding of politics, morality, and spirituality which are interdependent. In current usage the term has generally implied an equal commitment to fundamentalist Christian principles alongside loyalty to conservative political ideology.

The narrative usually includes one or more of the following propositions:

- America was a divinely inspired concept.
- Manifest destiny (the belief that American expansion, domination, and power were all part of that divine intent).
- To serve country is to serve God.
- To question or offer critique to the country is to challenge God.
- Patriotism and spiritual faith are the same thing.

Many of us grew up with some version of this kind of thinking. Limited expressions of it have shaped our lives, our education, our development as people, and more.

Mature reflection has taught us that, while there is much in our heritage for which to be proud, there are always appropriate places to question, reevaluate, correct our assumptions, and even to turn in a new direction. The list of examples is long in our history. Voting rights for women, the issue of slavery, Jim Crow laws, gender and sexual equality have all been subjects of controversy over the years. None of them have been resolved by Christian Nationalism, and some which are still problematic have been stymied by such doctrinaire attitudes.

God is not a Republican. Jesus is not a Democrat. America is neither the promised land, nor are its citizens the chosen people. None of us have all the answers or a special pipeline to the wisdom of the Almighty.

What we do have is a great many blessings. We have the privilege of living in a country in which freedom is valued. Sometimes we disagree on what that means in our complex culture. We also live in a land of great abundance. The problems of economics in America have never been ones of resources. They have been issues of distribution.

In the Gospel of Luke, someone approached Jesus and asked about the way to inherit eternal life. He answered by asking the man what the law says. The response was directly from The Torah. "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your strength, and with all your mind; and your neighbor as yourself." Jesus replied, "You have given the right answer; do this, and you will live." This led to Jesus' parable of the good Samaritan, which is among the best-known teachings of The New Testament. It remains the answer to this day.

This is not a partisan nor an ideological answer. It is not a way to reflect on the way our own best interests can be served. It is not a means of advancing a personal agenda. It is not a way to position ourselves for a better political, personal, or business situation. It is a call to serve the needs of others. It is a call to care for the poor, the imprisoned, the sick, the immigrant, and those with heavy burdens.

If we trust and act upon this teaching; maybe, we too can live.

Coastal Sights Exhibit to Adorn Art Gallery

SEA COAST ECHO

Coastal Sights come alive through the work of award-winning Hancock County-area watercolor artist Herb Willey.

Herb has recently been working on a technique that allows Watercolor art to be framed without matting and glass. Many of the new pieces in this show have been framed in this manner and will be publicly displayed here for the first time.

Herb is presently concentrating on the changes that have occurred with human attitude toward nature with the proliferation of cellphones and digital cameras. Look for his narrative interpretations in some of these pieces like "What Shrimp boat".

The show opened last month and will be available through August 1 at the Moss Point Fine Art Gallery in the Pascagoula River Audubon Center located in Moss point at 5107 Arthur St.

Gov. Appoints Bay man, three others to Mississippi Outdoor Stewardship Trust Fund Board

SEA COAST ECHO

Gov. Tate Reeves has made four appointments to the Board of Trustees of the Mississippi Outdoor Stewardship Trust Fund, including a Bay St. Louis native.

"The Lord blessed Mississippi with an abundance of natural beauty. One of my top priorities will always be to conserve our parks, wetlands, and trails for future generations to enjoy and appreciate," Reeves said. "I am confident that these individuals will help to do exactly that by effectively representing the state and steering the responsible investment of these funds toward impactful conservation efforts."

Reeves appointed Dason Colin Maloney of Tupelo to represent the First Congressional District, Van K. Ray of Yazoo City to represent the Second Congressional District, Drew Thomas St. John, II of Madison to represent the Third Congressional District, and David Edward Holman of Bay St. Louis to represent the Fourth Congressional District.

Reeves signed House Bill 606, the Mississippi Outdoor Stewardship Act which established the new trust fund, in April of this year.

The Mississippi Outdoor Stewardship Trust Fund Board will oversee $10 million of state appropriations that can be invested into projects and programs that facilitate care for parks and rivers across Mississippi.

Additionally, with its creation, this new trust fund will unlock millions in federal dollars that Mississippi can invest in further efforts to protect our environment.

The money can be directed toward a variety of issues including improvements to state parks, public water and land restoration, increasing the number of wildlife management areas, protection of wetlands, forests, and grasslands, expansion of conservation education, and improvement of recreation and trails for example.

Outdoor recreation in Mississippi generates over $8 billion in revenue each year and helps to support more than 79,000 jobs.

"Now, when you go to the park, you see adults sitting in lawn chairs, watching their children and grandbabies play. … It all gets back to the basics of social interaction, social skills, team building through sports, supervision by adults — trying to put role models in a natural setting … to being a positive place for adult and child recreation, where quality of life is the focus."

Shore Thing: JOE JOE 5.0

Shore Thing Fishing Report
By Cpt. Sonny Schindler

When I saw young "Joe Joe" Kuhner sitting in the mini van, at our dock in Bayou Caddy, I knew it was gonna be a good day. Celebrating his 5th Birthday, he had never been on the boat with his Dad(Big Joe). He was sitting in his booster seat, half asleep, grinning ear to ear, and ready for his fishing trip. He didn't really seem to understand what he was getting into, but it was like he understood that something soon was gonna be awesome.

Joe Joes's older brother, sisters, aunts, uncles, cousins, even his Grandma have all been out with me at some point in time. This was his big day, and his Dad wanted him to have all the fun. We had a small weather window to make Joe Joe's Birthday Trip happen. Luckily, we were able to fish close to the dock, and the speckled trout were hungry. We had a live well full of croakers, that we're getting hammered by trout on almost every cast.

Joe Joe and one of his many trout.

Joe Joe with a trout he helped tag, about to release.

Hats off to big Joe. He and I could have done some serious damage to those trout, but it was all about Lil Joe Joe. We let him reel in all the fish. If a fish was small, he'd help us tag them.

Yes, he terrorized our live bait, but he always picked us out a good one, and heck, he was having fun. Joe Joe really wanted to help net a fish. When we hollered, "get the net in the water", he did exactly what we said. Luckily my landing net floats, because he got the entire net, "In the water" when he threw it out of the boat, at the big trout splashing alongside us. It really was actually pretty funny.

After almost four hours of birthday fishing fun, Joe Joe had had enough. We took our party to the Shore Thing dock in Bayou Caddy. Him and his dad had a great time feeding the sea gulls scraps of fish from the cleaning table.

The weather wound up being really nice. We caught a bunch of fish, and honestly had a really good time. Hopefully Joe Joe will be back for many more trips in the future. Happy Birthday Lil Buddy!!!

McGee makes 1500m finals at World Championships in Oregon

Cory McGee of Team USA crosses the line in the 1500m at the World Athletic Championships held at Hayward Field on the campus of The University of Oregon on July 18.

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

For the first time in history, the World Athletucs Championships (Track and Field) were held on US soil from July 15-July 24 at Hayward Field on the campus of The University of Oregon. And, there was a Gulf Coast native on the track in Pass Christian's Cory McGee.

McGee fulfilled a lifelong dream last year when she made Team USA and competed in the finals of the Tokyo Olympics. In fact, she has qualified to compete for Team USA in major international athletic meets every year since 2013.

The former Pass Christian Lady Pirate and University of Florida All-American qualified for Team USA at the World Championships when she won the silver medal in the 1500m at the USATF Outdoor Championships on June 25 with a time of 4:04.52.

At the World Championships, McGee competed in Heat 3 on July 15 and automatically qualified for the semifinals with a sixth place finish and a time of 4:03.61.

On July 16, McGee automatically qualified for the finals with a fifth place finish and time of 4:02.74.

The finals were held two days later on July 18 and McGee found herself in a race that moved fast from the start.

She was in ninth place at the first 100m of the race and eventually clawed her way to fifth place by 500m where she stayed until the 1300m mark. She crossed the line in 10th place with a time of 4:03.70.

In an interview with another media outlet after the race McGee confided that she knew there were some outstanding runners that could command the race and time. She added that she hoped she had run a smarter race because she was in a position that was not part of her race strategy.

McGee ended by saying that her goal the remainder of the 2022 season is to break the 4:00.00 barrier which she feels confident that she can as she ran a 4:00.34 at the Prefontaine Classic in Oregon on May 28.

Faith Kipyegon of Kenya won the race with a time of 3:52.96 followed by silver medalist Gudaf Tsegay of Ethiopia and bronze medalist Laura Muir of Great Britain. USA teammate and national champion Sinclaire Johnson placed sixth in 4:01.63.

McGee's plans are to enter as many Diamond League races as she can to break that barrier.

After the World Championships ended on July 24, McGee's season and personal best time in the outdoor 1500m is the time from the Prefontaine Classic in May. Her best time in the indoor 1500m is 4:04.75 run at the Boston University Track and Tennis Center on February 1, 2020.

At the World Athletic Championships, Team USA won 33 medals to lead all countries with 13

If something does not look right, prompt adjustments to a valve or pressure setting can be made. Every second of a test can seem extremely long with members of the test team focusing on specific tasks.

"To me test days are a mix between a mid-term exam in college and a sporting event game day," said Ryan McKibben, Deputy Chief of the Mechanical Operations Branch. "We have prepared our systems as well as we can to test and characterize the hardware."

In July 2012, operators initially planned for a 1,500-second test, knowing that it likely would hit an automatic cutoff point sometime prior to that time. The cutoff came 1350.524 seconds into the firing.

Completion of a test does not mark the end of the day for the team of operators and engineers, however. Additional work must be done to secure the test article and stand, begin post-test processes, return propellant barges to the Cryogenic Storage Facility, collect all test data, and review lessons learned in preparation for future hot fires. Most data reviews include combing through a couple hundred slides of information.

"Even after testing out at Stennis Space Center for 15 years, test days are still special and I get excited to come to work on those days and learn," McKibben said.

Operators conduct a record-setting hot fire of an upgraded J-2x powerpack on the Fred Haise Test Stand on July 24, 2012. The flame exiting the test stand through the discharge duct is from the combustion of the test article. Operators fired the powerpack for 1,350 seconds, surpassing a previous record of 1,150 seconds established just six weeks earlier. The hot fire still stands as the longest-duration test ever conducted in the A Test Complex.

A trick I learned a couple of years ago, and which I think this is a better choice, is to sow okra seeds in mid-July. This is perfect weather okra-growing weather, and these plants will produce well into October.

So the take-home point for today is that even though it's hot in the garden right now, start planting your fall vegetables. When it's time to harvest them, the temperatures will have dropped, and you'll still be growing and enjoying fresh veggies.

BACK TO SCHOOL

How to prepare kids to go back to school

The end of summer can be a bittersweet time for students. While many students look forward to seeing their friends, few want to say goodbye to the relaxing days of summer.

Parents know that getting their children back in the school day swing of things can be a challenge. The following are some ways to make that transition go smoothly.

• Introduce more structure as summer vacation winds down. The chance to unwind in a structure-free setting can benefit students at the onset of summer vacation. Many parents grapple with the notion that their children's lives are overscheduled, and the Cleveland Clinic notes that limiting organized activities clears up down time for kids to play and relax and spend time with their families. So it's important that parents afford their children this down time during summer vacation, only gradually introducing more structure as the school year draws closer. In the weeks before the school year is slated to begin, start waking kids up a little earlier and reintroducing bedtimes for younger children who may have been staying up later over the last couple of months. This can be an effective way to begin slowly preparing youngsters for the structure of the school year.

• Encourage children to read throughout the summer. A report from the education publishing company Scholastic found that 47 percent of parents are unaware of the "summer slide," which refers to the loss of academic skills that occurs when school is not in session. Scholastic notes that the slide is largely attributed to a lack of reading when school is not in session. By encouraging kids to read during their summer vacations, parents can make sure youngsters' brains stay sharp and are ready to learn once the school year begins.

• Focus on the positive. Even kids who love school may be apprehensive about returning to the classroom. After all, summer vacation is fun. Parents can confront that apprehension by focusing on the positives of returning to school. Emphasize the chance to see friends every day or participate in a beloved extracurricular activity, like sports, band or a favorite academic club.

• Let kids do some of their own back-to-school shopping. The items that constitute back to school supplies may have changed since parents were in school. But many parents still take their children on back-to-school clothes shopping excursions. Let kids choose their own clothes, as an opportunity to wear clothes they picked themselves might make them excited for the new school year.

Parents can take various steps to make the transition back to school a successful one for their young students.

A refresher course in school bus safety

The dawn of a new school year is a time marked by change and fresh opportunities. For many children, school marks the first time they are away from their parents for an extended period of time. It also may be the first time they ride in a vehicle other than their parents' cars.

Each school day, 25 million children ride a bus to school in the United States. A school bus is among the safest modes of transport and one of the most regulated vehicles on the road, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Riding a school bus can be a novel experience no matter a student's age or grade. Kindergarteners may be introduced to the school bus on their first day of school, while older students are no doubt familiar with life inside a school bus. But all students and families can benefit from a refresher course on school bus procedures to ensure this school year begins on safe footing.

• Be a smart pedestrian. Riding the school bus is very safe, but injuries can occur walking to and from the bus stop. Watch for cars backing out of driveways and always look both ways multiple times before crossing streets.

• Remember school bus laws. Most areas of the country have specific school bus laws that include stopping when red lights are flashing on the school bus. Cars must stop whether they're behind the school bus, next to it or on the opposite side of the street facing the bus. Stopping allows passengers to enter or exit the bus safely.

• Stand away from the curb. The National Safety Council advises keeping six feet, or three giant steps, away from the curb while waiting for the bus. Young children should be carefully supervised.

• Be visible. Always cross in front of the bus, making eye contact with the driver so that he or she knows your intentions before crossing. If you drop something, do not bend down to pick it up. Tell the driver instead.

• Remain seated. Find a seat promptly and remain seated for the duration of the ride. Do not stand up and proceed down the center aisle until the bus has stopped.

• Minimize distractions. Always speak softly and behave so that you do not distract the driver.

School buses are very safe vehicles, but passengers need to do their part to avoid injury.

Fund and Mississippi Development Authority, particularly Sen. Philip Moran, Rep. Brent Anderson. He also thanked former Police Chief Gary Ponthieux, Jr., who "was very instrumental in getting the funding."

"It was a great group effort," Moran said. "It's been a long time, but it's a great day and I look forward to walking through the front door (of the new department) in the future."

Favre said Gov. Tate Reeves sent a letter congratulating the city on the groundbreaking, saying "This is an exciting time for the Bay St. Louis Police Department and everybody who knows and loves it."

The Bay St. Louis City Council awarded the construction contract for the facility in May to Gulfport-based Dan Hensarling, Inc., which presented the lowest bid of $4,193,000 for the project.

The old Bay St. Louis Police Department was demolished in November 2020 due to extensive black mold infestation.

The Bay P.D. is currently housed in the city hall building on Hwy. 90, but quarters there are a little cramped, officials say.

The new building will be slightly further down Main Street from the old one, next to the Bay St. Louis Fire Department on city-owned property

The new complex will provide state-of-the art facilities for employees and citizens, including booking areas, holding cells, interview rooms and a forensics processing facility.

The department is also seeking a new police chief, after Ponthieux retired last month. Favre said Ponthieux's replacement should be appointed soon.
